

COLLINS UPHELD IN AUTO CASES

Acquitted by Glen Echo
Town Council of Unbecoming Conduct.

COL. WINTERS FINED $50

Mayor Garrett Says Violation of Speed Ordinance Must Cease.

Glen Echo's mayor, John A. Garrett, and town council not only acquitted Mayor Marshall Charles P. Collins, who was charged by Washington automobilists with conduct unbecoming an officer, but imposed a fine of $50 upon Col. M. A. Winters, who preferred the charges. The town hall was packed to overflowing last night with men, women, and children. The session began at 8 o'clock, and the case was not disposed of by Mayor Garrett until almost 1 o'clock this morning.

In imposing the heavy fine upon Colonel Winters, Mayor Garrett said: "With due regard to Colonel Winters and the other gentlemen who have appeared here as witnesses tonight, I declare that the vast majority of automobilists who run over the Conduit road from Washington are a gang of toughs and hoodlums, who come down to violate the laws of Maryland and who are responsible for the maintenance of gambling joints and speak-easies in Montgomery county."

Will Fight to Finish.

"We are aware of the fact that the Washington Automobile Protective Association has been formed with lots of money and a great display of hired legal talent, but I give due notice here and now that Glen Echo is going to fight to a finish, and I am going to fine all those who are brought before me to the fullest extent of the law. Every man who exceeds a speed of six miles and hour, limit in this corporation, will be fined $50."

Previous to his speech Mayor Garrett threatened to impose a fine for contempt of court upon anyone who applauded. That was all that prevented the dwindling crowd from breaking into cheers. They showed their approval by smiles and whispers to one another.

Colonel Winters Fined $50.

While the four town council men, E. Bruce Aldrich, Guy E. Jenkins, George W. O'Brien, and Thomas E. Weaver, were deliberating over Collins' case, Garrett took up the charge made against Colonel Winters by Collins. Colonel Winters is said to have violated the speed law on two occasions, on the last of which he and his friends in the vehicle are said to have defied arrest. Colonel Winters was also charged with having failed to properly tag and number his machine. Mayor Weaver imposed a penalty of $50 fine. Attorney Creed M. Fulton, of Leckie, Fulton & Cox, representing Colonel Winters, gave notice of an appeal, and Mayor Garrett took Colonel Winters' personal recognizance to appear for sentence at some later day.

Car Waited for Washingtonians.

The party left about 12:45 o'clock this morning. According to the regular schedule the cars were supposed to have stopped running, but the conductor and motorman waited for the thirty or forty passengers who were landed in Washington without waiting.

Collins' trial was spirited and stubbornly fought. Attorneys representing the automobilists went to the town hall with armfuls of law books and copies of the Maryland statutes and Glen Echo ordinances. The accused town marshal was represented by ex-State Attorney Kilgore.

PROTECTED HOME CIRCLE HONORS SUPREME OFFICERS

The supreme officers of the Protected Home Circle were given a reception and ball at Masonic Temple last night by the Capital Division, Protected Home Circle of Washington. Supreme Officer J. M. Evans, of Sharon, Pa., made an address on fraternal insurance. E. A. Lindholm, of New York city, and Frank Gilbert, of Sharon, Pa., also made speeches. A bouquet was presented to District Deputy Cole by the supreme officers of Washington. A short cut pleasing musical program was well received. Dancing and refreshments followed the entertainment. The committee on arrangements consisted of the Messrs. Everidge, Estes, Esbaum, Cole, and Norris.

Miss Ethel De Koven Aids Auto's Victims

Composer's Daughter
Lifts Into Car Two Men
She Had Run Down.

NEWPORT, Oct. 31.—It has become known that Miss Ethel De Koven, daughter of Reginald De Koven, the composer, lifted two injured men into her touring car and hurried them to a physician after the automobile had run them down.

While racing to a supposed fire at the Charles F. Hoffman estate Miss De Koven's auto, going fifty miles an hour, struck George Burrows, butler, and the chief employed by Senator George Peabody Wetmore, who were riding bicycles toward the scene.

Miss De Koven leaped from the automobile and, with her chauffeur, lifted the wounded and unconscious men into the trolley. They then rushed ahead at full speed to Senator Wetmore's home, where a physician, who had been summoned by telephone, attended the injured men, both of whom will recover.

MACHINISTS HERE FOR CONFERENCE

Will Go to New York to Meet
Southern Railway
President.

Several members of the committee representing the striking machinists of the Southern railway arrived here this morning and at once called at headquarters of the International Association of Machinists, where they conferred with President O'Connell. The other members of the committee are expected to arrive here during the day, and tonight the committee with President O'Connell will leave the city for New York, where tomorrow they will have a conference with Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern railway.

Seth Low Arranges Conference.

At tomorrow's conference it is believed that a basis of settlement of the strike will be agreed upon. Seth Low, president of the National Civic Federation, who was instrumental in bringing about the conference between President O'Connell and the representatives of the machinists, will be present at the conference.

The committee from the men have full power to act, and it is believed that with the reopening of negotiations this time terms of settlement will be fixed by which the strike will be declared off and the machinists resume their old positions.

Strikers Not Interfering.

In the meantime the Southern has not abandoned its efforts to secure men for its machine shops to keep the work going. The striking machinists are not and the machinists resume their old and not interfering with the strike-breakers. Officers of the International Association of Machinists are confident that President O'Connell's efforts to secure an adjustment of the trouble between the Southern and the machinists will be successful, and that in a very few days matters will resume their normal condition.

PIPE LINE WEB TO REAT KANSAS

Financiers' Scheme to Carry Crude Oil for Fuel to Many Towns.

WOULD COST $100,000,000

Success Would Place Independent Oil
Producer Beyond Rockefeller's Reach.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Oct. 31.—One of the most gigantic undertakings in the commercial world of Kansas is now being considered by men of national note in the financial circles. In fact, it has passed the conceptive state and is now in the first stages of execution. A company is being formed to establish and build a network of pipe lines over Kansas to carry crude oil from southern Kansas and the Territory to the various towns of the State to be used for fuel for electric lighting and heating purposes.

The company does not care whether such plants are owned by municipalities or by individuals just so they are supplying the fuel oil. Fuel contracts are all that is desired by the company. Such an undertaking, it is estimated, would cost $100,000,000, and more than $50,000,000 already has been subscribed. An effort will be made to get a prominent Wall Street capitalist interested, and then stock will be placed on the market.

Although as stated above the proposition is yet in an embryonic state, its final success is not at all improbable. The benefit of such a system to the independent oil producer of the State cannot be overestimated. It would place him absolutely independent of the Standard Oil Company as the entire output of this field would be handled by this company. Even when sold at a price low enough to practically put an end to the use of coal, the concern could pay enough for the crude oil to make it more profitable to use it in this way than to refine it.

BRIDE DESERTED

ILL FROM SHOCK

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 31.—Deserted on the day she was to have been wed, Miss Ina Smith, of Mahoningtown, is lying ill from grief and shock. She was to have been married to Carl H. Robertson. The minister and wedding guests arrived at the Smith home on time, but the bridegroom failed to appear. The guests finally retired. It has been learned that the bridegroom left the city.

Miss Smith's family will make no effort to find him.

He Says They're Wed; Ridiculous, Says She

Contradictory Stories of Young Texas Ranch
Owner and Daughter of Wealthy
Syracuse, N. Y., Lawyer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—In the face of repeated denials by Miss Una Goodelle, daughter of a wealthy Syracuse lawyer, that she had married Clement Mudge, a Texas ranch owner, the young man, who is the son of rich parents in this city, repeated the story very circumstantially.

To explain the attitude of Miss Goodelle, or Mrs. Mudge, as he referred to her, Mr. Mudge said that, after her divorce from Guy Brown, in Syracuse, her father had forbidden her to marry again, and she feared his anger.

"Our marriage took place on January 15, last," said Mr. Mudge. "I remember the date well, for I had been dining with some Baltimore friends only the week before at the Waldorf, where Miss Goodelle also was dining with her father. I was then present at Miss Goodelle's wedding, and I proposed to her, Mr. Mudge said that, after her divorce from Guy Brown, in Syracuse, her father had forbidden her to marry again, and she feared his anger.

"On the 15th she accepted my invitation to dinner and took an automobile ride with me afterward. I proposed, and she accepted me. We went to a drug store at Eighth avenue and Twenty-third street, where we were directed to an alderman and we were married in his home. I do not even remember his name. After the marriage my wife returned to her father at the Waldorf. I asked her the next day to announce our marriage, but she refused and begged me not to tell her father. Repeatedly I begged her to tell of the marriage, and she finally became very angry and I gave it up and went back to my father's home."

"I have made the matter public on this visit, hoping that she would admit it."

"Ridiculous," was Miss Goodelle's comment when Mr. Mudge's story was told to her. Then she added: "I may have something to say about this matter later, but not now. It is ridiculous."

COLLEGE FARE POOR; GIRLS ON STRIKE

Lone Oyster in Their So-Strains Endurance to Breaking Point.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31.—The girls at Guilford House College for Women are on a strike because, as they claim, they do not get enough to eat.

"The dormitories have not been paying expenses for several years," announced Miss Bissell, the matron. "You eat too much so we are going to curtail expenses in that department."

In pursuance of this policy, the girls say, the menu has been gradually dwindling. For a time, the girls suffered in silence. Then the storm came. The first course was oyster soup in which a solitary bivalve floated. The soup was dispatched with as much expedition as etiquette allowed and sixty pairs of eyes gazed expectantly toward the kitchen door. Nothing was forthcoming.

"Lunch is over," announced the matron. Then the enraged maidens hurried for their purses and over to "The Corners," where they dined on roast beef and potatoes. The afternoon was spent in excited discussion of the "outage."

"It is a pity if we cannot have something to eat when we pay $8 a week for our board and room," exclaimed one miss. "It is likely that some action will be taken."

$1.50 madras
Waists for 95c

An exceptional offer, this. Madras Waists are high in favor for present wear—and for later, too. We got these waists in a deal—the maker wanted ready cash—and got it by letting us have these waists at this big discount from regular price.

We've just 15 dozen these Madras Waists and they are in white grounds with black stripes and checks or blue and gray grounds with black stripes. Made in a pretty pleated effect with the new cuffs. A very nobby effect is obtained by the addition of white figured madras stocks. We'll match this waist against any in Washington at $1.50. So long as they last, tomorrow, choice 95c.
